VOL. LX: No. 39 REDWOOD CITY, CALIFORNIA SATURDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1920 ESTABLISHED 1859

Unto Us a Son Is Given

by ALICE MEYNELL

GIVEN, not lent,
And not withdrawn—once sent,
This Infant of mankind, this One,
Is still the little welcome Son.

NEW every year,
New born and newly dear,
He comes with tidings and a song,
The ages long, the ages long;

EVEN as the cold
Keen winter grows not old,
As childhood is so fresh, foreseen,
And spring in the familiar green.

SUDDEN as sweet
Come the expected feet.
All joy is young, and new all art,
And He, too, whom we have by heart.

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS

(Luke 2: 1-14)

AND IT came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

(And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, (because he was of the house and lineage of David).

To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was, that while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there was in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them: Fear not; for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all the people.

For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Savior, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

A Russian Legend

"WE GO TO WORSHIP THE KING," THEY SAID.

Baboushka stood in her doorway
When the Three Wise Men passed by,
"We go to worship the King," they said,
"We have seen His Star in the sky.

"Wilt thou come with us, Baboushka,
Or ever the Star be set?"
"I will come and seek the new-born King,
But ah, My lords! Not yet!

"I must set my house in order,
And I must spin and sew,"—
The Star had set ere she made an end,
And the winds began to blow.

And evermore Baboushka
Goes seeking through the wild
The Three Wise Men, the shining Star
Her King, the new-born Child.

But on the eve of Christmas,
When there are none to see,
She comes with gifts in either hand,
To deck the Christmas Tree.

She comes where sleeping children
Lie dreaming of the morn,
To see if once again on earth
The Christ-child hath been born.

The Social Message of Jesus

By S. J. DUNCAN-CLARK.
(Chicago Evening Post.)

NEVER did the world need more than now to hear the authoritative voice of Jesus.

If we are to bring order out of chaos, peace out of conflict, brotherhood out of clash of class and group, we must return in humble spirit to the Bethlehem manger, to the Nazareth shop, to the market place, the seashore or the mountainside, where the message of Jesus was spoken to the hearts of men.

Jesus believed in man. It is well to emphasize this fact in an age of cynicism. There was no room for despair in His philosophy. He came into a world where force and fraud and oppression prevailed, and to the hour of His triumphant death He never doubted that love and justice and freedom were possible in human relations.

Jesus believed in man as a potential Son of God. His ideal for society contemplated the emancipation of man from the control of material things. Mammon should not rule; there should be no occasion for anxious thought concerning any need of the body; the spiritual nature of man should be free to realize its highest destiny.

In the program that He worked out as He toiled at the bench He planned that service should be the motive and cooperation the method in human industry. We have substituted self-advantage for service, and mutual exploitation for cooperation. While these rule in motive and method we shall never realize the happiness He desired for us—the happiness we seek.

Jesus set small store by charity. The philanthropy of almsgiving was to Him a mere cloak for the imperfections and inequities of human relations. He put all the emphasis of His teaching and example upon justice and love. In a world where these prevailed charity would be unnecessary.

We have traveled so far from the ideals of Jesus it is not easy to restore them. But there is no other way to find a permanent solution for the troubles that disturb us. His road is the only road. It involves sacrifice. We cannot avoid the cross. But beyond Calvary lies the realization of our hopes.

It is not enough that the spirit of Jesus should be worshiped in our temples or revered in our homes. It is not enough that His sympathy and help should be expressed in our hospitals, our orphanages, our institutions for the poor and the afflicted. To be satisfied with this is to evade the real challenge of His message and to lose the real meaning of His promise.

The spirit of Jesus must be brought into factory and mine and bank and railroad system; into store and office.

It must reveal to us that man is more than the machine with which he works; that material wealth was meant to be the servant, not the master, of the human soul; that the making of a life is the supreme thing, for which the making of a livelihood is merely incidental.

Until we get this vision, we will approach the solution of our problems without true understanding.

It is time that men who believe in Jesus should make their faith count—not merely in religious observance, but in human relations; in civic duty; in business; in industrial management; in the tasks of office and workshop.

The hope of the world rests upon the leadership of Jesus.

CHRISTMAS, the Day of Gladness

By REV. THOMAS B. GREGORY.

CHRISTMAS, both in its ritual and in its sentiment, is almost as old as Humanity itself. As far back as you can go we find something very like the Yuletide festival—a season of rejoicing, attended by a somewhat boisterously joyful celebration.

About Christmas there is nothing that even approximates sectarianism or any kind of mental or social narrowness or littleness. Its spirit is as broad as humanity, and all men of whatever race, creed or geographical status, are invited to, and are entitled to, take part in its glad festivities.

Very pitiful is the human being who, in the midst of the Christmas season, feels like flocking off by himself, like Dundreary's bird. It is a season, not for isolation and loneliness, but for fellowship and universal brotherhood, as though we were saying to one another, "ALL HANDS AROUND!" with nobody left out.

When we pause to think of the way in which the Christmas originated it becomes easy for us to understand why the season is everywhere made to be the occasion of deep rejoicing and multiform gladness.

Beyond a doubt the festival had its birth away up in the frozen North, in the region of the aurora borealis, where the battle between the cold and the heat, the darkness and the light, is the longest and the most terrible; and it was quite natural that at the turn of the sun, when the light and warmth began to return, men should turn themselves loose in a sort of paroxysm of joy.

And by degrees the festivities of the men of the far north worked their way southward; for even there the return of the sun meant life to men, meant the sunshine and heat without which the human race must perish.

The hyperboreans had their Christ, Baldur by name, Baldur the good, the gentle, the compassionate, who, taking pity on them, destroyed the Frost Giant and saved them from death. We cannot very well blame the hyperboreans if, at first, their religion was largely of a material type—the worship of the sun, for Baldur was no more than the sun idealized.

Christ—not the petty Christ of the professional theologian, but the Christ of Humanity—stands for OPTIMISM. All is well. Let not your hearts be troubled. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof. In reality there is no evil, the thing we call "evil" being but good in the making. "I am come that ye might have life, not death; confidence, not despair; gladness, not weeping and wailing."

Away with all grouchiness and greed, all doubt and despair! This is the season of love and good will, of hope and gladness. Joy is always and everywhere "orthodox" and in order.

If you are able to do so at no other time of the year, during the Christmas time resolve to have the full courage of your noble self, and to let your worthiest and bravest sentiment assert itself to the full.

Let joy be unconfined! Again be is said, "ALL IS WELL." The Sun is not going to be conquered by the Frost King; the anarchists are not going to overthrow the Constitution of the United States and the government that was inaugurated by our venerated Washington; in spite of the little politicians who are ready to "give up to party what was meant for mankind," the ways and means of bettering the condition of mankind will surely be found; the life of men and nations shall not have been in vain; and as for Old Death, who awaits us at the end of the little earthly way, for all that we to the contrary he may turn out to be our best friend.

Those who have crossed the north Atlantic in winter need not be reminded of the uplifting and joy-giving influence of the gulf stream. Those who have felt it can never forget it. Once fairly upon the mysterious "river of the sea," the chill and numbness of one's body and soul depart, the rigid muscles relax, the pent-up feelings let themselves loose in singing, and chat, and all-round sociability and enjoyment, and all the world seems to be refashioned for the better.

And such is Christmas, with its good will and good cheer, its brave confidence and spontaneous gladness. It is the gulf stream of life, warming us into the sentiment of a common humanity, with its unselfishness and comradeship, and imparting to us all the glad sense of security and victory.

If Every Day Were Christmas

TEXT—Romans 14: 5—"One man esteemeth one day above another; another man esteemeth every day alike. Let every man be fully assured in his own mind."

WHAT if every day were Christmas? The suggestion at first blush is perhaps not altogether agreeable. One can imagine numerous protests against the idea because of the excesses to which many go on Christmas holidays. Let it be granted freely that Christmas is misused, that it is often a season of excesses and extremes; even so, who of us would do away with Christmas? For despite all the excesses of the holiday season and the hardship it works on many, is there not a rainbow of glory over every recurring Christmas celebration?

Christmas is a season of prophetic idealism and a rebuke to selfish living. At the approach of the anniversary of our Lord's birth, men and women whose thoughts have been mostly of self are moved to think of others. The idea of serving others and making others happy affects even the blase and the indifferent. Somehow, the idea that it is more blessed to give than to bargain finds lodgment in minds unused to tender and benevolent thoughts. For a brief period, cruel competitions that so sorely grind human society are lessened if not forgotten. For the time being, all humanity seems to be one family. There is a delight in seeing everybody joyous. The foreigner is made to feel at home. Artificial barriers are broken, and there come even into hard faces some softened lines. The spirit of Christmas penetrates even behind stone walls, and the prisoner is made to know that he is still remembered and that society has not abandoned hope in him.

Christmas is the one season of the year when we are especially reminded to take Jesus seriously. The Sermon on the Mount seems practicable then—the Beatitudes possible in daily life. Even the great words, "Peace on earth, good-will toward men," actually appear workable at Christmastide. The old text so precious, so peculiarly appropriate, John 3: 16, finds lodgment in our heart of hearts: "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have eternal life." There comes into our minds the conviction that we have not taken seriously the lessons that our Lord taught, but that now we take Him at His word; we share, we give, we sacrifice, we find a new joy growing out of these very practical and beautiful ministrations.

LAUNCH VAST EFFORT FOR EUROPE'S YOUNG

Eight American Relief Agencies Combine to Save 3,500,000 Children Death Menaces.

Eight great relief organizations, working among and for every race and creed, have united under the name of the European Relief Council to coordinate child relief in Europe this winter. The Council will seek to provide funds for 3,500,000 starving and diseased children in Eastern and Central Europe and to administer this relief economically.

It consists of Herbert Hoover, chairman, and Franklin K. Lane, treasurer; Edgar Rickard, representing the American Relief Administration; Dr. Livingston Farrand, representing the American Red Cross; Felix Warburg, representing the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee; Wilbur K. Thomas, representing the American Friends' Service Committee (Quakers); James A. Flaherty, representing the Knights of Columbus; Dr. C. V. Hibbard, representing the Young Men's Christian Association; Miss Sarah S. Lyon, representing the Young Women's Christian Association; Dr. Arthur Brown, representing the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

It is the purpose of the Council to raise $33,000,000, in an appeal centering at the Christmas holidays, to the end that the desperate situation regarding child life may be met. In every town and community of the nation, it is planned, local committees, representing all the co-operating agencies will be formed to secure the vitally necessary funds. Of the amount sought, $23,000,000 will be used for basic food and $10,000,000 for medical service.

For every one of these American dollars the local governments and communities aided will furnish two dollars, in the form of transportation, labor, guards, clerical help, cash contributions and such food supplies as are locally obtainable. No children receive the free food except after medical tests showing them to be seriously undernourished. The remaining $10,000,000 of the fund is just as urgently needed for medical service to the children.

The European Relief Council will do much more than effect economies in the raising of the child saving fund. It will, with the inspecting forces of eight great agencies, keep a constant eye on the administration of America's merciful gift, in order that there shall be no wastage and no tendency toward pauperization.

"This is the largest co-operative benevolent organization ever attempted in the United States," Mr. Hoover says. "The organizations represented have come to the unanimous, though independently formed conclusion, that nothing but prompt and united action by the whole American people can avert incredible tragedy for the helpless children involved. The organizations forming the Council will organize their representatives in every town and community of the nation for the raising of the necessary funds."

GREETING

To all our friends and readers we wish a very merry Christmas for their kind patronage during the year and for their co-operation in our efforts in giving them the news.

This is a season when all should be inspired with its spirit and be happy and joyful. There should be peace on earth ond good will towards all. There should be no bickerings nor hatred at this season. Let joy reign supreme, let happiness prevail, cast dull care to the winds, let this Christmas be the happiest of your lives. We all have reason to be joyful, prospects for prosperity and happiness for the coming year were never so bright. The abundant rains insure a bountiful harvest and the outlook for the peninsula was never so encouraging. Therefore make merry and be happy today.

LET EVERY MAN CHIP IN

According to Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Winconsin, the first act of the new Congress will be the passage of a resolution making peace with Germany. In a recent address in New York City the Senator declared that the repeal of the war time powers of the President would closely follow the return of peace, and revision of Federal taxation would be taken up immediately thereafter. Mr. Lenroot referred to the natural impulse of some of our citizens to shift the burden of taxation to others, a tendency which he depreciated.

"With a proper revision of our tax laws," said he, "we can do much to aid in bringing about permanent prosperity. There is only one just rule of taxation, and that is that every man should bear the burden of the government according to his ability."

THE STATISTICAL CHUMP

Our idea of an ignoramus in the field of economics is a man who tries to show variations in the cost of living by quoting wholesale prices. Consumers, who pay the cost of living, do not buy at wholesale.

U. S. FOSTERED REVOLUTION

Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire is the author of a resolution requesting the Secretary of State to transmit to the Senate such information as he may have bearing upon conditions in Guatemala. It is asserted in the preamble to the resolution that on last April there was signed at the American legation in that country an agreement whereby President Cabrera was to surrender to the revolution then resisting his authority, on condition that he be lodged in the military academy and given explicit guaranties of his life and property. In violation of that agreement it is charged that Cabrera was thrown into a dungeon, subjected to daily tortures, and his property confiscated. He is a pronounced friend of the United Staes, and inasmuch as the agreement referred to was entered into at the instignation of the American consul, Mr. Moses believes that this government should take cognizance of what has transpired in that country ni recent months.

IT WILL NOT START HERE

Congressman Julius Kahn of California recently addressed his colleagues on the subject of Japan. He has visited the country and studied its people and customs, and is convinced that much of the controversy between the Japanese and Americans is due to the intensely emotional nature of the Orientals. Mr. Kahn sees no prospect of war between the two countries, so frequently mentioned in the press, but utters the warning that the United States is ready for any eventuality that Japan may force upon her. "You hear no threat of war," says he, "on the part of American statesmen, politicians, or even demagogues. I know I utter the earnest hope and the wish of every patriotic American that peace between the two countries may continue perpetually, but I say, in all candor and in all frankness, that if the statesmen, the publicists, the politicians, the agitators, and the demagogues of Japan really want war with the United States they will have to be the ones to bring it on and not the Americans."

COUNTY PURCHASING AGENT VISITS HIS RELATIVES

County Purchasing Agent Ernest H. Werder has gone to Borsolvay, San Bernardino county to spend Christmas with his brother, Ludwig. This little town way out on the great American Desert is at its best this time of the year as a mantle of snow covers the arid planes and Old Baldy who stands as a guard away to the south is a great white sentinel while towering in the north Mt. Whitney is plainly to be seen with his shining sides reaching almost to the sky. Mr. Ludwig Werder is manager of the borax works in Borsolvay.

SANTA CLAUS AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

In spite of the rainy weather the Congregational church was crowded to the doors Thursday night to welcome Santa Claus.

A great big pine tree bespangled with tiny electric lights and covered with tinsel and popcorn and gayly colored balls took up one corner of the room. A program given by the children who believe in Santa Claus and all that he stands for was given. A big stack of candy boxes and piles of bright red apples surrounded the tree, so everyone was in the right frame of mind to welcome Santa. Just at eight o'clock he came and he knew everybody there. He had gifts in his pack which he generously distributed. Everybody there got something and everyone who wished to, had a chance to tell what else he would like to have for Christmas. Taking it all in all it was a mighty good time and everybody was glad that Santa Claus came to Redwood City.

DUCK HUNTING REMINISENCES (Story No. 26.)

By Claude Fox.

When I think of the thousands upon thousands of wild duck and geese that inhabited the marshes at the time Fred Stalter and myself became boon companions in the quest of wild water fowl, of the ease with which we could obtain the web-foot birds, of the glorious moon-light night shooting which we had in the grain fields of this peninsula, of the hundreds of birds we brought in each season, my heart goes out in pity to the younger generation, the boys of today, who, just as enthusiastic over the sport as ourselves, labor much harder and are compelled to be contented with a half dozen, and more often less, of the grand birds that at one time were so plentiful here as to be a menace to the farmer's crops.

Fred Stalter and I had not been hunting long together before an incident occurred one night at the first fence which had a humorous and ridiculous side as well, and showed the extremes that some hunters go to swell their game straps and at the same time arouse the petty jealousy that unfortunately slumbers in the human race.

Before going into details concerning this event I desire to place myself on record as saying that in no other occupation, for profit or pleasure, are aroused such bitter feelings, such lamentable jealousy, and such harsh animosities, causing the severance of warm friendship between boys and men as well, as are engendered over trifling incidents connected with duck hunting. A crippled duck which two have shot at simultaneously will do more to destroy a lifelong friendship between man and man than any other cause of which I am now aware, and the acquisition of the limit of birds by one will arouse more jealousy in the hearts of those less fortunate than any other reason within my knowledge.

On this particular night a third party entered into the events which followed. It was no less a personage than little Jack Welch, fosterson of old man O'Shaughessy of whom I have previously spoken in these articles. As for myself, I can truthfully say, without any spirit of braggardocio, that never yet have I begrudged man or boy a single duck and today I derive as much satisfaction in seeing a kid come in with a bundle of the broad bills as though I had killed them myself. As far as my old friend Fred Stalter is concerned he never knew what it was to be jealous of a fellow hunter's success and selfishness is as far from being a part of his character as this earth is from the moon. Little Jack Welch, however, was built on different lines. Jealousy and selfishness ran rampant through his character, and the incident which I am about to relate will, I believe tend to bear me out. There was another, a very dear friend of myself and our late lamented Coroner James Crowe, who figured in the events of that night. Down in the City of Mayfield, seven miles south of here, lived a man by the name of Pete Mayer. He has passed on home to a destination we all must go, but to those still living who knew him in life, his memory will never be obliterated. A prince of good fellows, with a kind word and smile for every man, woman and child whom he met, it is safe to say that Peter Mayer scattered more sunshine and happiness along the pathway of his short life than most men do who live to be three score and ten. Peter was engaged in the drug business with his brohter Bernard, himself a splendid man, and it was impossible to pass through Mayfield without pausing to shake hands with the Mayer boys and discuss the wild duck situation. But I must get back to little Jack Welch.

On the night in question Fred Stalter and myself had gone down for a moonlight shoot. I was to go to the fourth fence and Fred was to guard the little pond at the first fence. We had arranged to go home together at eleven o'clock. The ducks were not flying very good that night and when the time came to go I had but eight or nine birds. Up above the little pond just below the artesian well at the first fence the water spread out over the field and with the aid of the cattle had formed a bog or swamp. Just before leaving to meet Fred I had heard two shots in quick succession up at this place. When I reached Fred I saw some one shooting at the big pond, just above and in quired who it was.

"It is little Jack Welch," said Fred "and he has got six mallard that he killed up at the bog, in two shots out of a big flock." Now Fred and I had not as yet seen a large flock of mallards on the marsh. so I took it, as the saying goes, with a grain of salt. "Well he has got the birds anyway," replied Fred and then just as we were leaving for home little Jack came walking over to exhibit his kill. They were beauties, large northern birds that would each dress three to four pounds, four drakes and two biddies. I fondled the birds over while Jack told how the flock swung around to light and what a pretty shot he made. There were two things I took particular notice of, one was the beauty and size of the birds and the other was that their eyes were sunk back deep in the heads. That was enough. We walked home together, but I lingered long enough at Fred's gate to tell him those birds were dead at least twenty-four hours. So much for little Jack Welch.

A few days afterwards I was driving through Mayfield and stopped of course to see Peter and Ben Mayer. Pete was very much afflicted with "duckitis" like myself and our conversation naturally drifted to wild duck shooting rather than to the last dance we were to. "By the way," said Pete, "did you see those six mallards little Jack Welch took home on the butcher wagon last Wednesday. They were beauties, four drakes and two females. He bought them from a Spanish boy who killed them down at the old Seale well in the marsh."

Last Wednesday, that was the night Fred and I met Jack at the first fence. Your little boy will tell you that if you put two and two together it makes four. I figured pretty fast and when I had told Pete the balance of the story about those six mallards I thought he would die laughing. Needless to say we had several to wash down the mallard feathers. I could not reach home too quickly. Little Jack had exhibited the ducks to almost every one in town, but Pete Mayer and the Spanish boy robbed him of all his glory and when I broke the news to Fred, "Bill" and the Culle nboys we never quit kidding Jack about those six mallard that he killed in two shots down at the bog on the Sweeny ranch.

HUNDREDS IDLE OVER THE HOLIDAYS IN SOUTH CITY

Nearly 2000 men, many of whom are residents of South San Francisco, San Bruno, Colma and Daly City, have been temporarily thrown out of employment through the shutting down of several big factories and steel manufacturing plants in South San Francisco.

The Pacific Coast Steel Company has laid off in the neighborhood of 900 men for an indefinite period. The Enterprise Iron Foundry has shut down until some time in January. The Edwards Wire Rope company is running but two days out of the week

The cause for this sudden slump in the big industrial plants is said to be in most cases due to the readjustment of wage scales and that in all probabilities there will be a new and lower scale go into effect when the plants are reopened.

A SLIGHT MISHAP

Anyone who was in Redwood City at 8:10 Thursday night certainly knows that it was raining. Louis Winkler of the Ryan Drug Company knows it anyway. Whistling a merry tune which he had learned from one of his phonograph records, Mr. Winkler buttoned his slicker about him, jumped into his trusty Dodge and started for home. At the corner of Broadway and Hamilton street he espied an unoffending Ford ambling along toward him. Right there and then the Devil or some other evil forces took hold of the back wheels of Winkler's car. It slewed around and knocked the rear-end off of the Ford, then rared across the street and knocked the gasoline pump in front of Pat Foley's garage into seventeen pieces. Then it looked for a soft place to land. This wasn't hard to find as there is a nice sticky place just alongside the new post-office and there it stuck until friendly hands came and gave it aid so that it could again start on its homeward way.

The card party given by the Companions of the Forest in Native Sons' hall Tuesday was a financial and social success. The hall was crowded with players, many coming from neighboring towns. The first prize was won by Leo Weeden.

To our friends and patrons we wish a merry Christmas. May all the joys of this season be yours and may your every wish be gratified and your most roseate dream realized

Runnymede, one of the flourishing colonies of the county, or in fact the state, is soon to have a bank. The Runnymede Association announces that it will establish one after the first of the year. The chicken colony is rapidly forging ahead, the town is growing and will soon be incorporated.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bates have returned to Menlo Park from New York, where they have been visiting.

Miss Frances Merrill of Menlo Park left Tuesday for a month's visit in Chicago with her mother. She will return to Stanford next quarter.

FOR YOUR SCRAPBOOK

"O YE OF LITTLE FAITH!"

A sower sowed his seed, with doubts and fears;
"I dare not hope," he said, "for fruitful ears:
Poor hath the Harvest been in other years."
Yet ere the August moon had waxen old
Fair stood his fields, a waving sea of gold:
He reaped a thousandfold!

In a dark place one dropt a kindly word;
"So weak my voice," he sighed, "perchance none heard,
Or if they did, no answering impulse stirred."
Yet in an hour his fortunes were at stake:
One put a life in peril for his sake,
Because that word he spake!

"Little I have to give, O Lord," one cried,
"A wayward heart that oft hath Thee denied;
Couldst Thou with such a gift be satisfied?"
Yet when the soul had ceased its mournful plaint,
God took the love that seemed so poor and faint
And from it made a saint!

BOARD OF EDUCATION HOLDS SESSION

The board of education held an important session in the court house on Thursday when the questions for the eighth grade examinations were prepared. The examination will take place simultaneously at Redwood City, Burlingame, San Mateo and South San Francisco on January 10, 11, 17, and 18. One hundred and fifty boys and girls will take the examination and those who pass will be eligible to enter the high school.

OIL DISCOVERED IN THE SAN GREGORIO DISTRICT

A group of men have been working quietly for the past eight months in the San Gregorio district investigating the numerous reports regarding the presence of oil in the formation of said district in paying quantities. After obtaining a number of leases covering several thousands of acres, they have had a few geologists looking over the country between La Honda and Halfmoon Bay. A company, under the name of San Gregorio Oil Development Company with offices in the First National Bank building, San Francisco, has been formed lately, which, according to information available, will start drilling for oil as soon as the weather conditions permit. The exact location of the first two wells to be drilled is being kept secret.

This enterprise has been started and seen through so far by Louis H. Elken, a chemist, living in Redwood City; one of his associates being Cash Davis, also living in Redwood City, who has spent considerable time in the San Gregorio district during the last efw years, investigating the formation. It is not known, who the financiers of this new company are.

Prospecting for oil in this district has been going on for some years and producing wells are said to exist around Halfmoon Bay, none of the prospectors struck oil, how ever, the main body of oil, which, it has been calculated by the new company formed, will be found at a depth of 2600 feet. All wells in existence in this district have not been drilled for more than about 900 feet, and one of them, abandoned, at this depth has struck the second oil sand strata.

The experiment should be watched with interest by people around this part of the country; if oil should be found in the San Gregorio district in paying quantities, it would mean the opening of a new oil field and would surely result in a boom. Mr. Elken said a few days ago:

"The San Gregorio Oil Development company will not go before the people with a stock selling proposition, until oil has been struck or until all the pioneer work to be done is completed. And after oil has been found in paying quantities, I do not think, it will be necessary to sell stock. We will then simply sell oil. If we should find it, Redwood City will get its share and a full share at that, inasmuch as Redwood City is the intermediate station between San Francisco and the new district and anything needed down there, would come from or by way of Redwood City. Any geologist will tell you, that the formation in this district is really an oil yielding formation of Eocene Age and it has been known for years that this is practically the only formation of this kind with the exception of Monterey in existence northwest of the so-called California oil belt. This same formation is to be found around Bakersfield, but, being on isolated district, geologically speaking, the question is, where did the oil come from and where did it accumulate? I we can not solve these questions, we will be out of luck, because someone sooner or later, will. We simply started this in order to find out whether there is oil to be found or not. More I cannot say at this time, except that some of the credit given us for our work will have to go to Mr. T. C. Rice and Mr. A. Kincaid, for their able assistance."

DR. HICKOK PRACTICES UNDER A STOLEN LICENSE

The original Dr. Galen R. Hickok of Kansas has written District Attorney Franklin Swart, to the effect that he has received from spurious Dr. Hickok, recently convicted here of the crime of abortion, the license stolen from him some years ago. The convicted medico stole the license and for some years has been practicing on the strength of the license.

DEATH OF HENRY P. BOWIE

Henry P. Bowie, an old resident of the county and an official of Hillsborough, passed away at the Red Cross hospital, San Mateo, after a brief illness. Bowie returned from a trip to the Orient a short time ago and since then had been complaining.

Bowie was born in Maryland but came to California as a boy.

Mr. Bowie was the chairman of the Pacific Panama Exposition commission of San Mateo county in 1915. At the conclusion of the exposition Mr. Bowie filed an elaborate report of the work of the commission. H. C. Tuchsen was secretary of the commission and general manager of the San Mateo county exhibit at the fair.

PEOPLE YOU SHOULD KNOW

Dear Denny:
With your consent I'll write again,
about the town we used to know and call up friends we used to see about
the street so long ago:

The first that I would bring to mind
Is poor old "Crazy Charley,"
How we did make him rave and swear!
He was so mean and gnarly
Then there was big black Nigger Brown,
He whitewashed every fence and barn
And pasted bills all over town.
Bill Paper had a boot black stand
And a wooden peg with which to roam.
And Charley Wunder cooked the chow
At Tribolet's place "The Farmers' Home."
Matthew Sarat with his big white hat
Ran the Old Germania Bar.
Captain Fog with his short leg jog
Was an expressman without par.
Chinese Charley's ready aim
Always brought him a bag of game
Which he sold without going far.

These are some of the ones we knew
In the Redwood we used to know,
Our joys were many, our wants were few
In that good old long ago.
—YOUR OLD FRIEND.

CHIEF OF POLICE EXONERATED BY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

In view of the fact that Tom Curran who preferred charges of neglect of duty against Chief of Police Collins, at a recent meeting of the board, failed to produce evidence that the marshal was discriminating against the pool hall owners the board, on motion of Trustee Mabie, as chairman of the police committee, exonerated the chief. Mr. Curran at a recent meeting Called the attention of the board that Mr. Marley, owner of the United Cigar Store on Main street was conducting gambling in his place of business, also that punch boards were running in many places of business in the city, including grocery stores. The punch boards were ordered discontinued about two weeks ago by the Chief.

A petition signed by Mrs. M. Hayward and others was presented to the board asking the trustees to spare some of the oak trees in the Highlands, especially those near the curb line. At a recent meeting of the board and acting upon the recommendation of a committee appointed by the trustees all trees in the streets in the Highlands were ordered removed, and a contract was let for the same.

On motion of Trustee Tuchsen the petition was received and filed and the clerk was instructed to notify the signers of the petition that the board had no intention of removing any trees not a menace to traffic.

Upon the recommendation of Mr. Tuchsen the board voted to donate $10 to buy Chritsmas gifts for the county orphans. The order was made in favor of Miss Boggs.
